INCOSE Foundation

The Corporate Advisory Board, once again, generously hosted the annual wine soiree at IW 2014, along with support from many chapters, ASK International and UMS. In addition to raising funds for scholarships, two awards are bestowed at this event.

Sam Seymour, JHU Systems Engineering Program Vice-Chair awarded the INCOSE Foundation and the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory 2014 Alexander Kossiakoff Systems Engineering Scholarship to Thuc Tran, an Application Developer at Hewlett Packard whose research will study the migration of legacy systems. The award includes a 5000 USD scholarship and an internship at the JHU Applied Physics Laboratory.

The evening also marked the presentation by INCOSE president-elect Alan Harding of the first David Wright INCOSE Leadership Award to Tina Srivastava, an experienced aerospace engineer, manager, and technical leader. In addition to her work at MIT in applying systems thinking to the lean management model, Tina is a CAB rep, serves on the INCOSE New England Chapter Board of Directors and on the INCOSE Communications Committee.

INCOSE Certification Exam to Transition to SE Handbook Version 4 in 2015

On March 1, 2015, the INCOSE Certification knowledge exam will transition to being based on Systems Engineering Handbook Version 4 (SEHBv4). Until then, INCOSE System Engineering Handbook v3.2 should continue to be used to prepare for the certification exam for CSEP and ASEP. This delay from SEHBv4 release until exam updates allows applicants who have already began studying to continue using currently published materials. It also gives individuals and training providers adequate time after SEHBv4 release to prepare for the examination based on Survey on Use of Enterprise Architecture Frameworks
