

Mr. W. Odis Nickoles
PEO Aviation, Army Acquisition Corps

Mr. W. Odis Nickoles, Director of Concurrent Engineering, PEO Aviation, has worked in the areas of systems engineering and program management for over twenty years. He has worked in all life cycle phases including the development, qualification (including airworthiness), procurement, deployment, and sustainment. He is a member of the Army Acquisition Corps, and is Acquisition Corps Level III Certified in Program Management and Systems Planning, Research, Development and Engineering.

He has worked as an Air Force communications technician, designed shipboard systems for the Aegis Guided Missile Cruiser and Amphibious Assault ships, worked with night sights and target acquisition systems for armored vehicles, was the Configuration Manager for the UH-60 BLACK HAWK helicopter and the A2C2S. Mr. Nickoles has a First Class Radio Telephone License, a BS in Electrical Engineering from the University of Alabama and an MS in Materiel Acquisition Management from Florida Institute of Technology.