

Monthly Meeting in Silicon Valley

Tuesday, July 8, 2003 at 5:30 p.m.

Reports from the 13th International Symposium

The annual INCOSE Symposium is the one time each year where the INCOSE membership convenes. This year, it is being held in the Washington, D.C. area – specifically Crystal City.

The Symposium is the major forum for INCOSE's leadership to describe what INCOSE has done in the past year and what it plans to do in the next as the international systems engineering professional organization.

The Symposium has a technical program with oral presentations and poster sessions of technical papers on a variety of systems engineering topics.

The INCOSE membership is organized into local chapters, like. The Symposium provides attendees with an opportunity to meet with other systems engineers from across the country and around the world to learn what's going on.

Many INCOSE members volunteer their time to participate in a variety of INCOSE Technical Interest or Working Groups. Each of these groups focus on a different aspect of systems engineering. The annual symposium is one of two times each year that the technical groups convene.

The INCOSE Symposium also includes a trade show, in which a number of vendors display and demonstration tools, books, etc. of interest to systems engineers.

Some of the SFBAC members will be attending. Come hear the attendees recount the highlights of this year's Symposium.
