About Our Speaker

Stephanie Chiesi earned a B.S. in Aeronautics and Astronautics, a B.S. in Biology, and an M.S. in Aeronautics and Astronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. During that time, she worked at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. While in graduate school, she worked as a research assistant in the Complex Systems Research Laboratory. Ms. Chiesi has worked as a systems engineer at the Charles Stark Draper Laboratory and at Paragon Space Development Corporation. Ms. Chiesi joined Raytheon Missile Systems (RMS) in May of 2014 as a principal systems engineer. In 2017 she became the first RMS Systems Engineering Research Center (SERC) doctoral fellow, beginning her doctoral studies at Stevens Institute of Technology in the School of Systems and Enterprises that fall. Ms. Chiesi is also an inventor with 5 awarded patents. She achieved the Certified Systems Engineering Professional (CSEP) certification through INCOSE in April of 2014. Ms. Chiesi also completed the INCOSE Technical Leadership Institute in the first (inaugural) cohort 2015-2017. She is a participant in several of INCOSE's working groups including challenge teams within the MBSE initiative and the Empowering Women Leaders in Systems Engineering.
