

INCOSE Author Intellectual Property Release

Instructions: Each author must sign an Author Intellectual Property Release form; in the case of material with multiple authors, each author must complete a separate form. For International Symposia, all signed forms must be saved in PDF format, compressed into one zip file, and submitted in EasyChair with the final submission. For other INCOSE uses, the forms must be sent to permissions@incose.org. Failure to submit a signed Author Intellectual Property Release form by the final submission date may result in the rejection of the submission. Only the most recent version of the form will be accepted; to access this form, go to the Downloads section of the INCOSE HSI website: <https://www.incose.org/hsi2019/downloads>. Questions should be directed to permissions@incose.org.

Background

For the purpose of this release, INCOSE defines intellectual property (IP) rights as relating to: manuscripts; presentations; work products; conference: plenary, paper or panel session recordings; and other formally provided author works, all hereafter referred to as “materials”. Materials are commonly associated with INCOSE symposia, regional conferences, working groups, chapter meetings, and other events. Generally, under copyright law an author’s written work is owned by and copyrighted to the author unless specific releases are obtained. Authors usually desire that their works be afforded the maximum exposure possible among peers and associates. INCOSE enables the creation, advancement, and dissemination of materials. INCOSE and affiliated societies give credit to authors when their works are reused.

INCOSE requires authors to obtain any needed approvals from employers, customers, and/or assignees to meet legal obligations for publication by INCOSE and affiliated societies. INCOSE will not confer with or request approvals from anyone other than the author for publication rights.

Author IP Release

The author certifies that all required approvals have been secured and any export and/or other applicable release requirements to publish have been met. If applicable, the author further certifies that the author’s employer and/or assignee have approved release of the identified material.

The author hereby licenses INCOSE to publish the material and to use it for any current and future purposes at the sole discretion of INCOSE with no remuneration to the author or assignee. The author and/or assignee retains the copyright to the material.

The first page of any materials submitted to INCOSE must contain a copyright notice as follows: “Copyright © (insert year) by (insert author name or assignee). Permission granted to INCOSE to publish and use.”
