

Building the Systems Engineering Workforce of the Future – Education and Training of System Engineers (To Be Provided)

This white paper on the future systems engineering (SE) workforce and their education/training will expand on the various sections of the SE Vision 2035, notably in chapter 3. It includes detailed content that provides further background and rationale for the recommendations that was not included in the printed version due to page limitations.